

AxBx - Soho

Soho is the result of a chain of automation, the music behind the automation, the way in which the robots give music to all those small lights on the computer, corporate meetings, places where you can breathe economic psychopathy and brutality, the needs created by the system, also is the music with which the robots imagine the total destruction of their slavery, disorder, chaos result of constant medication staying asleep watching TV, is their conspiracy, soho their leader is one of the few machines and satellites who dare to look directly at the sun.
